ENJOYABLE TIME

Social Held by Holy Name Society

The junior branch of the Holy Name society, which is progressing and increasing in membership, held a social in the school hall on Andrews street last evening. Many members were present and the occasion was made more enjoyable by the presence of Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M. I., pastor of the church, and spiritual director of the society, and Rev. Lawrence Tighe, O. M. I. Both delivered short addresses of congratulation and encouragement.

During the evening a fine musical program was enjoyed. The Glendale market, which is composed of members of the senior society, gave the first number. When called upon the stage they received a great reception. James Winn then favored the members with some clever back and wing dancing. He introduced many original steps, while of course, he gave a few of the old ones. Henry Curry, baritone in the quartet, was called upon and rendered several classical songs. Mrs. Adelaide Muldown, organist at the church, also favored the audience with vocal and piano selections. Next in order was George Rogers and he kept the audience in laughter the entire time. "Baby," as he is called, is undoubtedly one of the best amateur entertainers in the city. His performance last evening was of a high order and it was well appreciated by all. He found it necessary to respond to several encores and when he concluded the audience was still applauding.

A basketball game was played and refreshments were served, ladies of the parish acting as waitresses.

THE ANNUAL BALL

Of the Butler Ames
Command

The third annual concert and ball of Butler Ames command, Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, was held last night in Associate hall and the affair proved to be one of the social successes of the evening. There were about one hundred couples present, including visitors from Nashua, N. H., and Haverhill.

The hall was prettily decorated for the occasion and this enhanced by the beautiful dresses worn by the ladies and natty uniforms worn by the members of the command and visiting officers, presented a very beautiful spectacle.

A concert program consisted of numbers by Kittredges orchestra and songs by Mr. Butler Ames, general dancing was enjoyed from 8 o'clock until midnight.

The present officers of the command are: Harry C. Down, captain; Clarence G. Baker, first lieutenant; Peter A. Mackenzie, second lieutenant; Alex. P. Fortea, sergeant and recorder; Bennett Silverblatt, sergeant; and treasurer; John Fisher, first sergeant; William Henry, second sergeant; Joseph Dunn, commissary; Harold Dunn, musico.

BOUGHT DREYFUS' STOCK
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 4.—William Murray, manager of the Philadelphia National League Baseball club, yesterday purchased from Barney Dreyfus, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates club, the latter's interest in the local National league team. All of the stock of the National League club of Philadelphia is now owned by local capitalists.

NEW SPANISH SQUADRON
MADRID, Feb. 4.—The cabinet has decided to accept the tender of Vickers Sons and Maxims, the English shipbuilders, for the construction of the new Spanish squadron, on condition that the firm consents to certain modifications. The amount of the contract is $90,000,000.

The ice harvest is now ripe and there will in all probability be an abundant crop.

Property owners on residential streets should remember that they are responsible for accidents due to icy or slippery sidewalks in front of their premises.

The actor of the school children in coasting has been greatly dampened since the death of the little Donovan child on Whipple street in a coasting accident. Still worse of them venturing to coast down streets and in many cases across street railway tracks.

PRES. ROOSEVELT

Again Takes up the Secret Service Restriction

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Declaring that "if the government is to act with full efficiency against criminals it must have some force of secret service agents who can get against criminals anywhere," President Roosevelt, in a statement made public from the White House last night, emphatically reiterated his opposition to restricting the field of usefulness of the secret service.

"The position of the administration," says the president, "is that it is against sound policy to discriminate in favor of criminals by discriminating against the use of the secret service to detect and punish them."

The statement was called forth by "misleading statements appearing in some of the afternoon papers" to the effect that the work of the secret service has not been hampered and that the investigation of cases, aside from the detection of criminals, has not been circumscribed by restrictive legislation at the last session of congress.

President's Statements

The complete text of the statement is as follows: "At no time has the president or any administrative officer claimed that the restrictive legislation of the last session affected the secret service division of the treasury department in the matter of suppressing counterfeiting or protecting the president. As a matter of fact, the limitation did not apply in the slightest degree to the normal functions of that service, and the claim that the secret service was not hampered in looking after counterfeitters is admitted; but the assertion that the government's interests are not correct. 'The effect of the limitation has not materially to circumscribe the field of usefulness in which the trained agents of the secret service had hitherto been advantageously employed. Under the limitation it became impossible to use these investigators in the class of cases in which they have been conspicuously successful for many years. The philosophy of the restrictive legislation is such that any person who was employed in or under the secret service division during 1909 for even so short a period as an hour became disqualified for promotion or employment in any branch of the government service where either his compensation or expenses would be payable from any appropriation in the sundry civil act."

Treasury's Hands Tied

"The limitations tied the hands of the secretary of the treasury, and made it impossible for him to continue the employment of these men in any cases of irregularities or wrongdoing. Those branches of the treasury department devoted to the issuing, redemption and handling of the obligations, securities and coins of the government. It is the contention of the executive branch of the government that it should be permitted to use the best means of investigating criminal cases, and when legislation is enacted that deprives the executive branch of a particularly desirable and effective investigating force the government's interests, which are the interests of the people, are injured, and the only gainers are the evildoers, who may thereby escape detection and punishment."

"The question is a right of wise or proper spending, is it discriminating against one particular division of the government's investigating force and prevent its employment where it might be used to great advantage."

Against Sound Policy

"It is an evasion of the question to answer that in one particular and circumscribed field—say, pressing counterfeiting and protecting the president—its activities are not affected by the limitation. 'If the government is to act with full efficiency against criminals it must have some force of secret service agents, by preference, under the department of justice, who can get against criminals anywhere; and that the position of the administration is that it is against sound policy to discriminate in favor of criminals by discriminating against the use of the secret service to detect and punish them.'"

GENERAL READE

Gave Interesting Talk on the Moros.

Gen. Philip Reade gave a talk on the Philippine Islands and the Moros before the Women's branch of the Research club in the Runds building last night. The lecture was illustrated by about sixty lantern slides.

After a few introductory remarks the general spoke of the building of houses in the Philippines stating that it is a matter largely concerning protection from seismic disturbances and insects and venomous animals. All of the houses are built on piles several feet above the ground. The joints are not nailed or pegged together, but instead rattan is used to fasten the timbers in place. In case of earthquake the buildings sway back and forth, but seldom topple over.

A picture of Gen. Reade's headquarters was shown. On one side was the American standard, fluttering in the breeze. All Moros were instructed to salute this flag as they passed by.

The timber resources of the island are very great, but they have not been developed to any great extent. Many of the woods growing there are greatly destroyed by large white ants. The woods are unfit for building purposes. At first the American soldiers constructed their houses of these woods, not knowing that they were excellent food for ants. Later, Georgia pine was brought to the islands, and this proved protection against the ravages of the ants.

Before the Americans settled there not a path even ran from one settlement to another. A tough, wiry grass, called bogon, grew all about. This cut the soldiers' hoofs dreadfully as they moved about, and it became necessary to set them to work clearing roads ways and paths. The natives assisted in this work. Prior to the American occupation, although the Spanish had held the land for several centuries, all communication between towns was made by water.

Every time a datto goes out with his suite to make some state call, or to attend to any formal business, he is invariably accompanied by a host of a cooler box. This is usually divided into three compartments. In one is the green leaves, in another the betel nut, and in the third a line of three jars is squeezed over the green leaves and the betel nut is then wrapped in them. Then the contents of the box are taken out and chewed. The betel nut becomes black or red. There are saucers, or shaves, owned by the Moros. Many of these men, he said, are possessed of remarkable strength. They are required to carry three loads on their backs, then Reade said that these men came in handy after a time. It was found practically impossible for American soldiers to resist on the force of the hand. They could not stand bulled rice as a regular diet. So bacon, in nine-pound tins, and hard tack in 20-pound tins, and pea and sugar were sent to the troops. But an American soldier could not carry with him such kind of ration sufficient for him to by them for a day. So the saucers were brought into play.

Gen. Reade said that there were many kinds of fruits there. There are often displayed in the markets eight or 10 different kinds of bananas. He said he saw some bananas that were grown there and was actually surprised to find out what they were. They were so different from the banana of we see it.

Although the Moros use bows and arrows in their pastimes, it is a curious thing that he almost never uses them in his warfare. Spears and swords are the weapons generally used. The sword used many times is the kris. This is a long, heavy, and extremely sharp. It is a Moros' command two swords were belonged by Moros. One was a sword of friendship, at the same time telling the soldier that he had some fruit in a bag for him. When the soldier looked in the bag he found a kris in his neck and he was beheaded. Another was a sword of revenge. A Moros who had a letter of some sort. As the soldier stepped to read the letter, the kris was brought into play again. After this two soldiers were put together for guard duty.

LATEST WOMAN COLLAPSED After Being Put Through the "Third Degree"

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 4.—As the result of being suddenly confronted with her husband's body, Mrs. Mary J. Wilhelm, the widow of Frank Wilhelm who was murdered in his home last Monday night, was in a condition of complete nervous collapse today after an unusually severe application of the "third degree" including a midnight visit to the morgue. The police had evidently expected to obtain some kind of a statement from her, but they were unsuccessful for when the sheet which covered her husband's body was suddenly removed she became hysterical, fell to her knees and frantically declared her love for her husband. As her hysteria increased Mrs. Wilhelm became incoherent and the detectives who were watching her and listening could make nothing of what she said. When she was taken back to the police station again she was in a state of utter collapse.

The midnight visit to the morgue was planned as a complete surprise to Mrs. Wilhelm. She was allowed to go to sleep in a cell, but was aroused shortly before midnight and was told she should accompany two detectives who were waiting.

"What do you want with me?" she asked. No answer was made.

"What am I wanted for now?" demanded Mrs. Wilhelm in some alarm.

Again there was no reply.

She was then taken to a carriage by the detectives and driven to the morgue where she was shown the body of the murdered man. She drew back for a moment and then rushed forward crying out:

"Oh, Frank! If you could only speak and tell them who did it!" Then her nerves gave way altogether and she dropped to her knees and declared she had always loved her husband. The detectives questioned her for more than an hour, but her condition was such that her answers were mostly incoherent.

An hour or so later the detectives endeavored to make use of similar strategy to obtain a confession from Nicholas Sica, who has been in the custody of the police since the murder. Sica was taken from the police station to the Wilhelm residence and in the basement where the body of Wilhelm was found was questioned by the detectives. He, however, preserved an undisturbed demeanor and merely reiterated his previous statements as to his whereabouts at the supposed time of the murder. He was then returned to the police station.

Chief of Police Corbett said today that he had received a letter from a woman who signed herself Mrs. Frank Wilhelm of 227 East 83rd street, Manhattan, saying that she married the murdered man in Germany and that he deserted her twelve years ago. Mrs. Wilhelm under detention here said that she had never heard of the New York woman. Wilhelm came from Herdendorf she said and he married her in Boston years ago.

The third anniversary banquet of the Palmer Bible class of the Fifth Street Bible school was held Wednesday evening in the banquet room of the church. It was the most successful affair yet held by the class, and was carried out in a manner most creditable to the organization. The room was adorned with the portrait of the teacher for the occasion, the tables were tastefully arranged and decorated with the class colors, blue and white, the menu being printed in these colors also. In the center of the room, resting on a special table, was the piece de resistance, a huge birthday cake, bearing in blue and white letters the memorandum, "Anniversary P. B. C. 1906-1909." The class was there to a man, accompanied by wives and sweethearts, and as the guests of the evening were eleven members of the Cross Bible class of Lawrence, building from the First Baptist church of that city, with whom came four ladies. As guests of honor were present Mr. W. W. Main, secretary of the Massachusetts State S. S. association, and Rev. Walter J. Swaffield, Ph. D., pastor of the First Baptist church of Lawrence.

The menu presented a turkey supper, "with all the fixings," which the boys themselves had provided, and which was served by members of the Ladies Aid society, assisted by members of the O. V. A., a young ladies' class of the school. When everything from consommé to ice cream and cake had been dispatched, the president of the class, Mr. Arthur C. Thissell, called the assembly to order and introduced Mr. Main. This gentleman congratulated the class upon the occasion and spoke of the magnificent fellowship constituted by the organized brotherhood of men's classes, now ten thousand strong. As the hour was growing late, Mr. Main soon gave way to Dr. Swaffield, who gave the chief toast of the evening, "The Place of the Young Man in the Church," making an eloquent and practical appeal to the young men to come under the mastery of Jesus Christ in order to be made by Him into all that He would have them become. Only so would they be fitted to take their place in the church.

Following Dr. Swaffield came a toast, "The Cross Bible Class," to which the teacher of the class, Mr. Lawrence, responded. He was followed by the pastor of Fifth Street church, who had the toast, "The Palmer Bible Class," after which all adjourned to the vestry for a social hour with songs and readings. At half past ten the Cross class left for the Lawrence car, but not till three rousing cheers and a song had been given by each class for the other, the whole being crowned by the singing of the doxology.

The Palmer Bible class begins another year with the greatest numbers, enthusiasm and promise. Last night's banquet was a pronounced success, and the prospects are for a year of large growth and a strong work. The situation is the fitting reward of long and faithful service by the present teacher, Miss Laura Palmer, aided heartily by the superintendent, Mr. R. D. Thomas.

LEGAL QUESTIONS GOVERNOR GILLET Important Ones Involved in U. S. Steel Inquiry Pleased With Action of the California Assembly

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Great difficulties are expected to be met in the investigation of the Tennessee Coal & Iron Co.'s absorption by the United States Steel corporation by the special senate committee preparing a reply to the resolution providing for the inquiry.

Although a number of bankers who were supposed to know all about the details of the purchase of the Tennessee Steel corporation by the United States Steel corporation have explained to the committee their participation in the transaction nothing has been brought out which disputes President Roosevelt's contention, that there was nothing proposed with which he found it incumbent upon him to interfere. The resolution calls on the committee to report what was the president's authority for permitting the merger.

Some of the members of the committee, in discussing the case informally today, suggested that it would have been wisdom for the president to advise Judge Gary and Mr. Frick to consult their lawyers instead of submitting the proposition to him.

In summing up the evidence presented, a number of lawyers in the senate have said that it appears to them that the party of sixteen financiers who obtained control of the majority of the stock were systematically "squeezed" during the panicky days of October and November, 1907, when Mr. Culbertson has sought to show that the stocks were especially "pounded" in the "street" by people interested in the so-called Morgan banks.

It is possible that no report whatever will be made to the senate in response to the Culbertson resolution. So many legal questions are involved that it is predicted a long discussion would result from any attempt to determine whether the president had proceeded in a wrongful manner.

NEAR DEATH
WOMEN WERE IN 'BOBBLED' WRECK
NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—The determination of Miss Emily Dunton, daughter of Frederick W. Dunton of Hollis, L. I., and granddaughter of the late Austin Corbin to steer her father's great bobsled down the hill on Dunton avenue, at Hollis, nearly cost her life and that of her friend, Mrs. Thomas P. Haste, yesterday.

Miss Dunton had steered the sled several times, when his daughter exclaimed:

"I'll steer it down this time, papa."

Mrs. Haste was the only one who would agree to make the trip with her. There is a dangerous turn near the bottom of the hill, where a strong arm is needed to steer the sled.

Miss Emily's arms were not strong enough. "Jump to the right!" she shrieked to her friend, and Mrs. Haste obeyed, while Miss Dunton jumped to the left. Both barely grazed a telephone pole, against which the sled smashed, and then landed in soft snow.

Right behind them was a second bob, steered by Frank H. Johnson. With him were Mrs. Johnson, Miss Lulu Allison, Mrs. Sewell, R. Shaw and Burt Kane. With a heavier weight, this sled was run at a terrific rate and so close behind Miss Dunton's that Johnson could not make the turn.

To avoid running into the two young women, Johnson turned his steering sled squarely at right angles and it steered into the gutter and threw off those on the bob. None of them was hurt.

DIVORCE TRIAL
JUDGE CLOSED DOORS AGAINST CURIOUS SPECTATORS
EDINBURGH, Feb. 4.—Tiring of having his court turned into a theatre filled with curious men and women who have seemed to regard the Stirling cross divorce cases as a lurid melodrama, Judge Guthrie today closed the doors on all except those directly identified with the suits.

John Alexander Stirling is suing his wife, who was Clara Taylor, an American show girl before her marriage, for divorce alleging misconduct, with Lord Northland, while Mrs. Stirling is praying for divorce on the alleged misbehavior of her husband with Mrs. Atherton. Lord Northland was on the stand all the morning.

His evidence consisted largely of flat denials to the statements made by Mr. Stirling and Mrs. Atherton. Mrs. Atherton, he asserted, carried on a conspiracy to keep Mr. Stirling and his wife apart. She even pressed him to the evidence of her objects but he refused to go. He attributed much of his attention to Mrs. Stirling to his efforts to cheer her up, particularly as she had purchased a revolver and on half a dozen occasions had threatened to kill herself.

GO TO THE POLLS

Failure to Vote Will Disfranchise You

Some acts that find their way to the legislature are, to say the least, "ridiculously and wonderfully made." The ridiculousness of some of the petitions would influence the belief that the petitioner was a practical joker. Take, for instance, house bill No. 582, which contains an act relative to registered voters who fail to cast their ballots at election.

Section 1—The election officers in each town and city in this commonwealth shall, with their returns of the votes cast at each and every election, return to the clerk of their respective town or city a full and complete list containing the names or names of each and all persons appearing upon the lists used at said election who did not vote.

Weak Little Boys

may become fine strong men. Some of the strong men of to-day were sickly boys years ago. Many of them received Scott's Emulsion at their mother's knee. This had a power in it that changed them from weak, delicate boys into strong, robust boys. It has the same power to-day. Boys and girls who are pale and weak get food and energy out of Scott's Emulsion. It makes children grow.

PRICE ONE CENT

IS FOUND GUILTY

NAPOLEON J. RIVET, CONVICTED OF MURDERING JOSEPH GAILLOUX.

NAP. RIVET

Convicted of Murder in First Degree

Napoleon J. Rivet, charged with the murder of Joseph Gailloux in the plumbing shop of Ernest Daigle on the night of February 29th, 1908, was this morning adjudged guilty of murder in the first degree by a jury of his peers, and murder in the first degree knows but one penalty, the electric chair.

The final chapter in the celebrated murder trial was strikingly in accordance with the events that had preceded it. The trial opened on January 25th, and the first surprise was the rapidity with which a jury was empanelled. Then the case proceeded with practically no interruptions and no long discussions of law points, and in fact no murder trial ever held in Middlesex county went along more smoothly.

The deliberations of the jury after the charge of Judge Hitchcock this morning occupied just 35 minutes. It was 10:25 when they retired and the large crowd present settled back in their chairs preparatory to a long wait. When at 10:35, only 35 minutes later, the bell in the jury room was heard to ring, summoning a deputy sheriff, there was great speculation as to the cause of the summons. It was believed that the jury was seeking further instructions, but when the word came to bring in the prisoner it became apparent to all that the jury had come to an agreement and in that short space of time there could be but one conclusion—"guilty."

Rivet, who had been taken into the detention room adjoining the court, was brought back by Deputy Sheriff Evelyn and Whitman. His face had lost its smile. No longer did he scan the faces of the spectators looking for friends to greet. With face deathly pale and apparently nervous he took his seat and kept his eyes fixed on the door through which the jurors had to pass in entering the court room. There was an atmosphere of suppressed excitement throughout the court room and the real enormity of the crime and its inalterable penalty appeared fully realized for the first time perhaps, since the trial began. To this was added the feeling of suspense as the minutes sped by and still no jury appeared.

When the jury, both ranging both Messrs. Bent and Gullett had gone down town not expecting a verdict in so short a period. They were sent for and until their arrival, about 11:15, the jury was held in its rooms.

The Fatal Moment

Upon the arrival of counsel for the defense the jury was called, the judge entered and court was in session again. Rivet kept his eyes upon the faces of the jury. There was a moment's delay while Deputy Sheriff Walsh went after the necessary papers, a moment that seemed like an age, while an oppressive silence settled upon the room.

The jury were then called and Rivet was called upon to stand up, hold up his right hand and look upon the jury. "Mr. Foreman, look upon the prisoner," said the clerk, Dr. McPeake, the foreman, looked the prisoner squarely in the eye.

"Mr. Foreman, has your jury arrived at a verdict?" asked Clerk Hurd.

"They have," replied the foreman.

"Mr. Foreman, is the defendant guilty or not guilty of murder?"

"He is," responded the foreman.

"In what degree?"

"Murder in the first degree," said the foreman.

"There was the sound of a chorus of sighs from the women, and suppressed sobs from the sisters of the defendant. Rivet dropped the extended right hand, grasped the rail of the cage and looked steadily at the jury for a moment while his lips moved convulsively for a second. Then he sank into his chair and sat with head bowed while Judge Harris in brief remarks dismissed the jury.

Defense to File Exceptions

William H. Bent, senior counsel for the prisoner, addressed the court and stated that while three days were allowed for filing exceptions he would move for an extension of time in which to file them. Judge Harris informed him that he might have ample time. He asked for 10 days but at the court's suggestion he extended it to 20 days and that was the time fixed for

NAVAL REFORMS

May Not be Made at This Session

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—No legislation concerning the reform of the navy department will be enacted by congress at this session if present plans are followed out. When Secretary Newberry appeared before the House committee on naval affairs today to explain the reforms he has inaugurated by consolidating bureaus he said he believed the new plans should be given a year's trial before they are made permanent by legislation. The understanding among the members of the committee is that nothing will be done to interfere with the secretary's reforms and that they have the approval of the committee. It is willing to wait a year that the changes may be tested.

CITY SOLICITOR SIX MEN KILLED

Section of His Opinion Omitted Train Ran Into Track Walkers

The omission of a line in the opinion on the "hawkers' and peddlers' ordinance" submitted by City Solicitor Hill to the board of police yesterday changed, to some extent, the sense of one of the paragraphs.

Below will be found the letter sent to the board this afternoon, as well as reference to the omission, the latter appearing in parenthesis.

Lowell, Mass., Feb. 4, 1909. Board of Police, Lowell, Mass. Gentlemen—The opinion furnished by me yesterday on the legality of the hawkers' and peddlers' ordinance, through a typographical error, omitted certain important words in the middle paragraph on the second page, and therefore endorse herewith a corrected copy with that opinion and request you to substitute it for the other. Very truly yours, J. Gilbert Hill, City Solicitor.

Upon this branch of the case, it is my opinion that the true construction of said act of 1895 is that when it refers to said section 12 it lays so much as for the purpose of adopting the schedule therein contained, and not for the purpose of adopting the citizenship exemption. Also it is my opinion that the courts would place this construction upon said act rather than to adopt a construction that would make the act unconstitutional.

KIERAN DENIES PRETTY WIDOW

That He Used Funds Who Figures in Murder to Aid Himself

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Donald Kieran had ever in any way used the funds of the Fidelity Funding Co. to further his personal interests, was made by P. J. Kieran of the bankrupt concern on the witness stand at a hearing before State Receiver Gilroy today. Mr. Kieran, under examination of the receiver, was questioned in regard to his personal relations with the Fidelity Co. Asked if he ever had bought any stocks or other securities for his personal account for which he used the funds of Fidelity Co., Mr. Kieran replied:

MRS. M. J. WILHELM

"I used no funds of the Fidelity to pay for any stock or any interest whatever in any trust company, bank, insurance company or in any kind of a concern or did I ever borrow any money or securities for such purpose from the company. The shoe was on the other foot; I was continually lending the company money and credit to further the company's interests."

Mr. Kieran said that many times the company had been unable to secure credit on its notes until they were personally endorsed by him. In this way there had been a huge total of charges accumulated against him on the company's books. These had been more than balanced by the credits he declared when the cash was received on the notes and turned over to the company. He said the balance was now in his favor, the company owing him money.

Asked as to his personal holdings, Kieran enumerated several industrial enterprises in which he held stock. The hearing was adjourned to Feb. 11.

WATCHED LACE

Alleged Smuggler Did Not Appear

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Two hampers of lace arrived by the North German Lloyd steamship Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse eight days ago, supposedly in charge of a second cabin passenger, and were seized by the customs men. Since then Collector Fowler and Surveyor Clarkson have been trying to discover whether or not there is an organized band of lace smugglers who by bribing express wagon drivers manage to get the lace off the pier, just as some smugglers of millinery have done with unclaimed trunks, called "sleepers."

Special Customs Agents O'Donnell and Peterson shadowed the suspected smuggler, but he apparently was aware that he was being followed and did not attempt to do anything with the lace, which were in the baggage room of the North German Lloyd pier in Hoboken, until he thought he had the inspectors off the scent. Then, it is said, he tried to induce the driver of an express company to sneak the hampers from the pier at night. He still under surveillance. Meanwhile, Charles Sam has the lace, which are sent to be valuably stored in the seizure room at the public stores.

GRAND JURY

INDICTS JANER ON A SERIOUS CHARGE

BALTIMORE, Feb. 4.—Joseph M. Janer, a married man of Brooklyn, N. Y., was today "presented" by the grand jury of this city on a charge which, divested of legal verbiage, means felonious assault upon Catherine Loarsch, an 11-year-old girl, also of Brooklyn, whom Janer brought to this city last Monday night. By the term "presented" is meant that the grand jury considers such a case strong enough for prosecution. Janer is regarded here as now being without the jurisdiction of the New York authorities.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—John Norris of the American Newspaper Publishers Association sent to the house ways and means committee today a letter charging that the International Paper Co. in presenting its argument for the reduction of the tariff on paper had deliberately misrepresented the company's operations; that some of the company's wages to papermakers. He charged that in making comparison with Canadian mills to show the relative pay for labor the International Paper Co. had understated the amounts paid by Canadian mills. Mr. Norris charged that 135 rates out of 145 cited by the International company were wrong to cover its own payroll were overstatements. The paper company had asserted that it paid fifty cents per hour to machine tenders. Mr. Norris furnished the company's payroll schedule to fortify his statement that the highest price now paid by that company to machine tenders is 45 cents per hour and that this rate applies only to six of the forty-eight machines which the company operates; that some of the machine tenders are paid 35 cents per hour and that the average rate is 41 cents per hour or 16 per cent, less than the amount claimed by the paper company. He declared that the comparison of wages paid to American and foreign labor as set up by the paper manufacturers at the tariff hearing was wrong and that the manufacturers should have known it was.

LAWYER MOTT
TALKS OF THE LAND FRAUD CASES

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 4.—M. L. Mott, attorney for the Creek nation asserted here today that there was no truth in the statement that W. H. Hearst inspired the suits that resulted in the Oklahoma land fraud investigations. Mr. Mott who is on his way to Washington to urge the enactment of certain legislation said that he inspired the suits from the start. Mr. Mott added:

"In an open letter to Gov. Haskell last fall I charged him with the frauds for which he is now indicted. He denied my charges and I wrote to President Roosevelt that I had based my assertion upon the sworn statement of 200 persons whom Haskell had used as witnesses in his transactions. These statements were gathered in 24 land suits which I had instituted on behalf of the Creek Indians to recover lands from which they had been defrauded. Twenty-six of these suits were started before Haskell was consummated and before Haskell was a candidate for government. As they were based upon the same allegations of fraud as the criminal proceedings I cannot see how Haskell could correctly claim that they were inspired by Hearst or that there are any politics in them."

NEW YORK GAS CASE
WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The mandate of the supreme court in the New York gas case was today forwarded to the United States circuit court for the southern district of New York where the verdict in the case was reversed by the supreme court. The mandate states the fact of this reversal and in the higher courts direction to dismiss the bill of the New York Consolidated Gas Co. The case has been so amended as to permit the circuit court to distribute the fund which has accumulated through the payments since the law went into effect of one dollar per thousand cubic feet instead of 80 cents. The fund comprises 80 per cent of the aggregate payments during that time.

LAWYER BELCHER

Pleaded Guilty to Larceny Charge

BOSTON, Feb. 4.—Robert E. Belcher, attorney at law and until his dismissal by court-martial recently, a lieutenant in the signal corps of Massachusetts volunteer militia, pleaded guilty in the superior criminal court yesterday to the larceny of $9500 from Miss Mary T. Coakley, sister of Rev. Timothy Coakley of Hingham, N. H.

The plea of guilty was entered on the understanding that the indictment against him alleging the larceny of $9500 of the commonwealth's money due to soldiers who did duty at the Chelsea fire would be placed on file.

Miss Coakley was employed in a private family by whom she was left $5000 on Oct. 1, 1908, and subsequently awarded $9500 on a claim against the estate. She engaged Belcher as attorney to collect the money.

It was alleged that Belcher manipulated the proceeds that Miss Coakley lost.

Belcher is 30 years old and lives in Ashland.

Judge Bishop will announce sentence some time this week.

NEW HAVEN ROAD

May Forfeit Charter in This State

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 4.—From options expressed by prominent officers of the New York New Haven & Hartford Railroad company, it is inferred that the corporation is considering seriously the forfeiting of its Massachusetts charter in case that result can be obtained without friction between the company and the Massachusetts authorities. This is due to the fact that under that charter during the recent controversies, Massachusetts has claimed jurisdiction over the property. The charter in question went into effect 35 years ago and at the time of the merger of the New York and New Haven company on the one hand, and the New Haven, Hartford & Springfield company on the other. The property of the New Haven company directly affects only of the few miles between the state line and Springfield. In the interval since the charter was adopted practically all the acts of the New Haven corporation affecting its property in Massachusetts, except the trolley business and the purchase of the stock of the Boston & Maine, have been continued by the Massachusetts legislature. It is believed, therefore, by a number of officers of the New Haven company that if the corporation could find some way to get out of the Massachusetts charter it could probably take a much stronger legal position and probably tend to transfer many of the legal questions involved from the state to the federal courts. The matter is indirectly affected by the bill introduced in the Massachusetts legislature calling for a report from the legislative committee on the subject of Connecticut jurisdiction over her chartered railroad corporations.

A brother, James O'Neil, lives in the Centre at the present time.

JANER ARRESTED

IS CHARGED WITH A SERIOUS OFFENCE

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 4.—Joseph M. Janer, aged about 31 years, of Brooklyn, N. Y., a married man with children, was held yesterday without bail after a hearing before Police Magistrate Grann, for the action of the grand jury. The charge, stripped of its legal technicalities, is felonious assault upon Catherine Loret of Brooklyn. She told the magistrate she would be 12 years old on the 23rd of this month. The arrests were made at the instance of the police of New York.

The pair had been staying at a boarding house on Calvert street since Tuesday morning under the names of Paul and Florence Newhall.

The grand jury is expected to take up the case today. Until then the little girl, who is in a pitiable nervous condition, remains in charge of the police station. The crime with which Janer is charged is a most serious one in this state, in case of conviction the sentence may be death by hanging.

The latter punishment has frequently been inflicted.

STOMACH MISERY

IMMEDIATELY RELIEVED

If the food you ate at your last meal did not digest, but laid for a long time like lead on your stomach, then you have indigestion in one of its stages, and quick action should be taken.

Of course there are many other symptoms of indigestion, such as belching up of sour food, heartburn, dizziness, shortness of breath and foul breath, and if you have any of them, your stomach is out of order and should be corrected.

Mi-o-na tablets have cured thousands of cases of indigestion and stomach trouble. If you have any stomach distress, Mi-o-na will relieve instantly.

But Mi-o-na unlike most so-called dyspepsia remedies, does more than relieve; it permanently cures dyspepsia or any stomach trouble by putting energy and strength into the walls of the stomach, where the gastric juices are produced.

A large tin box of Mi-o-na tablets costs but 50c at Carter & Sherburne's and are guaranteed to cure or money back. When others fail, Mi-o-na cures. Read this voluntary statement:

"I have used Mi-o-na for stomach trouble and indigestion. The use of Mi-o-na cured me of constipation, inability to digest my food, hard, dull pains in my side and through me. There are no words strong enough to express my good opinion of Mi-o-na." E. Bromley, Court St., Otsego, Mich., Oct. 8th, 1908.
